Dear [Redacted]

After spending almost an hour struggling in from Virginia this morning with Barney Oldfield [Redacted] at the wheel, I was distressed to learn from [Redacted] that you had been involved in an accident and painfully injured. Driving was certainly treacherous this morning and I am indeed sorry that you had to be one of the unlucky victims.

I do hope that your injuries are minor. As an old, experienced orthopedic patient I know that youth and good physical condition play a big part in promoting rapid recovery; hence, I know you will be back on the job in short order.

Sincerely, I am indeed sorry and will attempt to keep this end of your business going as you would have it until you are on the job again.

With best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Sincerely,

L. K. White
